“CHARMED WARRIORS” SERIES

Weds. February 3rd & February 17th, 2010
4:30pm to 6:30pm
Girls 13 to 17 years / $275 person

The “Charmed Warriors” series takes place over two (2) two-hour sessions. This is probably the most important class a teenage woman can attend during this critical phase of her development. The goal is two-fold: (1) to encourage self-discovery of her innate gifts which will assist her in developing her social and career path, and (2) to develop the ability to differentiate between negative influences in the media and how one should conduct themselves in real life.

Getting caught up in pop culture historically has lead many young women down a road to self-destruction. Arming these Charmed Warriors™ with the skills necessary to swim against the current tides encourages them to make more sound, moral and ethical choices and allows them to express themselves in a way that is much more positive, confident and powerful.

Each of the two-hour sessions will explore different aspects of etiquette and protocol and will include a formal dining portion reviewing all facets of table dining, listening and conversation skills.

Additional Program Highlights Include:

- Distinguishing between artist and art form in pop culture
- Self-discovery through journal writing and poetry
- Personal image unlocking codes of dress and behavior
- Interviewing skills for first time employment
- Conflict resolution skills to settle disagreements
- Negotiation skills and creating a win/win solution
